Blue Collar Productions is a boutique creative content and video production company located on 'The Lot' studios in West Hollywood. In collaboration with leading agencies, brands, startups, non-profits and entertainment properties, they tell stories that inspire and engage. Unfortunately, as technology in the world of video production advanced, and as the company grew, they were experiencing bottlenecks and slower network speeds. For the solution, they turned to Network Solutions, Intl.

Network Solutions Int'l got involved in the company's network redesign of the Machine Room, the network "backbone" at their headquarters. The plan included an upgrade to the latest technologies available in the industry. The design dramatically increased the speed and efficiency of the entire network for Blue Collar Productions, Inc., giving them the potential to be a lot more productive.
